

I am opposed to any further relaxation of the regulations limiting the number of broadcast media controlled by a single owner in a given market. America needs more, not less, diversity of programming and opinion in our media. Further consolidation would make an already too homogenous intellectual landscape even worse.